“Transparencies” is a project of the Mexican artists Lala Nomada (Gabriela Aldrete) and Niña Yhared, a cooperation work of performance art, in which installations will be produced and transformed during the two chapters of it. This work is the result of an intense communication process through different cities and sometimes continents. The common interest in fluid materials and specific colours will produce a live art piece in which the public won't be just viewer but also feel part of it, playing an important role in the progress of the evening
